PROFILE INFO

I'm a Computer Science student with over four years of hands-on experience in web development, focusing on JavaScript, React, and building responsive, user-friendly interfaces. I enjoy writing clean, efficient code and working on projects that make a difference. While I specialize in front-end development, I'm also curious about other areas of tech—like computer networks, systems programming, and cybersecurity—and I'm always looking for opportunities to learn and grow beyond my current skill set.
